

SkinnySki.com is one of the top cross-country skiing resources in North America and the leading resource for silent sports coverage in the upper Midwest. The web site attracts over 2 million visitors annually and averages well over 8,500 visitors daily during the winter months. Skiers can find daily trail reports with photos, extensive trail and race listings, gear and lodging information, along with race results and coverage throughout the year.

But we need your help to keep things running - We provide this service without charge but are asking readers to support us by purchasing an annual membership. Please join today!
